Type of Surgery Lateral Rectus Recession: Bilateral lateral rectus recession is the preferred surgical modality for patients with true divergence excess.

Welcome

The muscle insertion should be shifted in the direction where its effect has to be weakened.

Symposium on Strabismus

The longer the follow up, the higher the incidence of undercorrection. Excyclotorsion also converts medial recti into partial elevators and lateral recti into partial depressors, which results in elevation in adduction, resembling inferior oblique overaction. Orthophoria: Immediately after surgery, a small consecutive esotropia of up to 8 prism diopters is desirable in children.
