

Law, policy, and international justice - essays in honour of Maxwell Cohen

McGill-Queens University Press - Ghislaine Maxwell Claims Jeffrey Epstein's Plea Deal Still Gives Her Immunity

Description: -

-

General

Science/Mathematics

Technology

Water supply & treatment

Philosophy, European

Philosophy, Chinese

Knowledge, Sociology of

East and West

Certainty

Eastern

Philosophy / General

Sociology - General

History & Surveys - General

Epistemology

Industrialized / developed countries

China

Sociology

Philosophy

Chinese Philosophy

Western philosophy

Social theory

Oriental & Indian philosophy

Epistemology, theory of knowledge

Indians of North America

Illinois

Hopewell culture

Holding Site (Ill.)

Antiquities

American Bottom

Social Science / Archaeology

United States - State & Local - General

Sociology

History - U.S.

Archaeological Excavation Reports

Archaeology

International law -- Canada.

Law -- Study and teaching -- Canada.

Civil rights -- Canada.

Cohen, Maxwell, 1910- -- Bibliography.

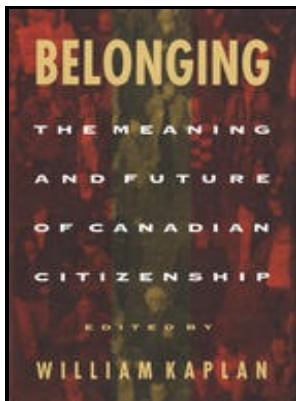

Law, policy, and international justice - essays in honour of Maxwell Cohen

-Law, policy, and international justice - essays in honour of Maxwell Cohen

Notes:

Includes bibliographical references (p. [491]-503).

This edition was published in 1993

Tags: #Sir #Roy #Goode #QC

Marcelo KOHEN

Sir Roy Goode QC

For most philosophers, however, the justice of a procedure is to a large extent a function of the justice of the outcomes that it tends to produce when applied. The maximum penalty is imprisonment of not more than two years. The influence of this work on modern political philosophy can hardly be overstated.

International Distributive Justice (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy)

These theorists have suggested that the state stands in need of justification, and that the justification we offer makes distributive principles applicable here—but not everywhere. It seems it will not be a concern unless it can be shown that the

Filesize: 24.67 MB

inequality between A and B can be attributed to the behaviour of some agent, individual or collective, whose actions or omissions have resulted in

A being better off than B — in which case we can ask whether the inequality between them is justifiable, say on grounds of their respective deserts.

United Nations Audiovisual Library of International Law

From 1974 to 1979 he chaired the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, while from 1981 to 1985 he was the Canadian judge ad hoc for the International Court of Justice.

Gender, Culture and the Law: Approaches to ‘Honour Crimes’ in the UK

It is much less plausible to think that comparative principles might apply, such that giving special treats to one cat but not another could count as an injustice. Preference is to be given to students who wish to pursue their graduate studies in a language other than their mother tongue, and preference is also to be given to students intending to study in a francophone institution. Here there is a contrast with other virtues: we demand justice, but we beg for charity or forgiveness.

Hate speech laws in Canada

He also challenged the requirement under s. He was successful in those arguments at trial and on appeal to the. Moderate left institutionalists generally present some view as to what activates these distributive obligations.

United Nations Audiovisual Library of International Law

. However, she did not think that the provisions could be justified under s.

Related Books

- Sylter Novelle - Skizze. Der Schimmelreiter : Text, Entstehungsgeschichte, Quellen, Schauplätze, Ab
- Breaking of seals - the French resistance in Slovakia
- Excretory system
- Cézanne - Ausstellung zum Gedenken an sein 50. Todesjahr veranstaltet vom Wallraf-Richartz-Museum K
- Joseph Hopkins Twichell - the life and times of Mark Twains closest friend