Discovering the Great Paintings

So impressive was this book, that the teacher went and bought herself her own copy. There are brief biographies of the artists, followed by projects that reflect their style.

Wen-Jie Duan, a highly respected former President of DunHuang Research Academia, dated them into Peak Tang, while Mr. Dali, again lots of ideas by and her kids! This is the reason I believe makes this images special, the fact that although they represent something that comes from the everyday life, they have been presented in a way that makes us stop and think, consider and reflect on that photograph and suddenly, this fact for me is what transforms an amateur photograph to a work of art. Something that also appealed to me was the way the show was curated. Heart stopping and breathtaking moments are present in this unique and romantic video.

Very much recommend for educators especially. What is the best way of helping your child create art that is inspired by the Great Artists? Each page I used this text as an accompaniment to How to teach Art to Children, but it could also be used as a supplement to a history curriculum. Beyond the wealth of 1,000 illustrations arranged by theme, dive deeper into art history with 160 engaging and enlightening essays written by experts at the museum, to create your own personal tour through this unsurpassed collection.
