Economic Reports

Textual Records: General records, December 1953. Membership on select and joint committees is not subject to party restrictions; the Speaker assigns Members to these panels, appointing Republicans on the recommendation of the Minority Leader. This represents a reduction of about 40 panels over the previous Congress due to the elimination of four House select committees and their subcommittees, stiffer limitations on the number of subcommittees per House committee, and decisions by the House Budget and Joint Economic Committees not to recreate subunits.
