The Lord Chandos Letter and Other Writings by Hugo von Hofmannsthal

As yet breeders have not realized the important rôle that modifiers have played in their results, but there are indications at least that the heaping up of modifying factors has been one of the ways in which {165} highly specialized domesticated animals have been produced. This book is a collection of short stories, some of them are just one page long, written by a talented Viennese poet, Hugo von Hoffmannsthal.
