In June 2004, subscribers to Reason magazine received a personalized issue that had their name, and a photo of their home or workplace on the cover. Reason was an entire studio emulation complete with virtual cables and representations of a subtractive synthesizer, sampler and drum machine, alongside a REX file loop player, a pattern step sequencer and a multitude of effects units. .

reason

Reason is by far one of the most recommended studios for creating and editing your own music. It was hailed as an affordable alternative to buying old, unreliable hardware devices. It is maintained and written by the staff of the magazine.
