Measuring the Performance of the Police: The Perspective of the Public

Building public trust and confidence — police legitimacy can be achieved when our services the communities we serve believe us to be effective and that our officers and agencies operate at the highest standards of professional conduct.

Policing Plan 2020

Suffolk is continuing to grow and develop and we must keep pace to ensure the Constabulary is equipped to deal with new emerging challenges that meets the needs of all our communities. The direct measures of police performance, which are sometimes referred to as traditional measures throughout this report, are very powerful measures that can provide an objective way to measure police performance, when used correctly. The purpose of the Summit was to increase awareness of the challenges and opportunities facing policing, provide practical information on improving efficiency and effectiveness, and strengthen the foundation for innovation and reform in Canadian policing.
