Virginia Obituaries

Middle names are very important in searches like this. If you only want to search for Photos, click the Photos button and type in your keyword s or phrase.

Death Records Search

For instance, if you know that your grandfather lived in Cape Charles, Virginia, you can search Cape Charles to get a list of 5 newspapers that were published in the area. When you have found an obituary of interest, you have the option of upgrading that obituary with more recent and relevant content unless the obituary is already assigned to another user. This link above takes you to the obituaries recorded.

Marriage Records Search

If taking the time to track down an obituary that you need or want is not in the cards, there are many services that will do the work for you and provide a photocopy for a fee.

Death Records Search

Local events are covered in great detail, including the period of reconstruction following the Civil War. Some obvious errors have been corrected in the transition from card index file to database, but researchers should use caution in accepting the information in the index as accurate without consulting the original source material. Copies of recent death certificates can be obtained from the Virginia Division of Vital Records.

Virginia Obituaries

This collection includes the following counties: Accomack, Franklin, Giles, Rockingham, and Westmoreland. Keyword Search: The keyword search looks across all name fields and the notes field.
