Behind the Scenes: Collection Development

Because the purchase of a periodical subscription represents an on-going commitment, the funding and selection of periodicals differs from the funding and selection of monographs. We collect information and provide access to information. English translations of core materials originally written in a foreign language will be collected along with the originals.

A Guide to Evidence

This citation is here to demonstrate that weeding is not a new issue in libraries. To be considered for funding, grantees were required to identify the specific evidence-based model that they would implement and agree to ongoing oversight and evaluation of outcomes. The library also maintains a subscription to the Oxford English Dictionary Online.

Collection Development Policy

Behind the Scenes: Collection Development

Overview For many years, policymakers and citizens have expressed concerns about the effectiveness of public programs. No libraries are specifically mentioned to protect our submitters who might disagree with a particular collection policy.

To facilitate this, PEER is developing standards for what constitutes a rigorous research evaluation. Based on responses to a survey, the authors review weeding practices. Weeding is an essential component of library collection management.

Behind the Scenes: Collection Development

A one-stop resource that thoroughly overviews the policies and procedures for timely and effective collection development for school libraries, the work is organized by chapters that explain the various tasks involved in effective collection development for school libraries.
