Church History in Brief

From the ramparts of Rome, a defensive papacy fired a barrage of missiles aimed at the modern enemies of the Catholic faith. Theologians of the Enlightenment wanted to reform their faith to its generally non-confrontational roots and to limit the capacity for religious controversy to spill over into politics and warfare while still maintaining a true faith in God. It expanded rapidly during the Age of Enlightenment, reaching practically every country in Europe.

Age of Reason

Fighting occurred throughout the continent, in places such as Modern-Day Germany, France, and Britain.
