One of them with mental illness. Cardiovascular disease and cancers account for most deaths, but accidents, particularly road accidents, represent the largest single category of health hazards during the first half of life. It must be nice living a comfortable life whilst essentially condemning these people to death, one of whom has been dealt a terrible hand from birth.

Picky, Picky, Picky

Basically, there is a school of thought that if you give free things to the homeless, that will encourage more homeless. Check for example the data from the their interactive map is quite useful. What tends to happen in the current system is if people are unemployed for more than six months then they lose the ability to seek work because they are in entrenched poverty.
