Evolution of GATT as trading institution and transition of GATT to WTO

The transition period has been extended three times, and now runs until 1 July 2034, or until a member ceases to be an LDC, whichever comes first. These negotiations resulted in the signing of the GATT on November 30, 1947. The developing countries also seek to protect their economies from the fierce competition and feed its treasury with the proceeds of taxes and customs duties on the imported goods.

Institutional Foundations of the GATT/WTO System

After the United States backed away from the ITO in 1950, the focus shifted to the GATT.
