New theatres also contributed to debates about civic pride, urbanity, and community. This centre is in a building with a large glass façade and panoramic views in an excellent location in the central business district of Bolton, close to the main shopping area.

About

Francis Lee Today's multi-millionaire footballers owe a great debt to the son of Farnworth who might well have been formed out of the very coal pits which featured in that area as he was granite like, a great player, great person and a great character. If you have time, then you can explore the Park after looking through the remaining photos of the Park in the Green Spaces Section of this website. The Chapel is now converted into apartments and the graveyard can be assessed from the front of the Chapel.

Representing a typical steam engine which would have powered so many mills throughout the region, it was erected and placed in its huge glass case by Bolton Corporation when Oxford Street and Newport Street were pedestrianised in 1973. Drawing on a vast range of archival material - much of which had never previously been studied by historians - it sets architecture in a wide social and cultural context, presenting the history of post-war theatre buildings as a history of ideas relating not only to performance but also to culture, citizenship, and the modern city. Inside the town hall was the Albert Hall, a central hall used for concerts and official functions, which was surrounded on three sides by a wide corridor and an outer ring of offices.

This campaign was multi award-winning, scooping some of the most prestigious marketing awards in the world, including a Revo Purple Apple Award and iconic Golden Apple Award in May 2017.

Bolton's Elephants

This is one of three Grade II Listed Parks in the town and was opened in 1889 as the second public Park created by the Borough of Darwen following incorporation in 1878. The event was filmed and the video managed to showcase every corner of the centre and involved a remarkable 100% of the tenants. The original building where Arkwright had his barbers shop was demolished in the early 1920s, being replaced by the existing building, though there is a plaque commemorating him on the wall above the music shop windows.
