With these resources it performed several duties simultaneously in the Southern North Sea and the Dover Straits: carrying out anti-submarine patrols; escorting merchantmen, hospital and troop ships; laying sea-mines and even constructing mine barrages; sweeping up German mines; bombarding German military positions on the Belgian coast; and sinking the ever present U-boats. It has had many uses since, such as a funfair, the Tunnel Railway, and as an air raid shelter during World War II.

Ramsgate Remembered: Ramsgate and the Dover Patrol

However, after a reorganisation of railway lines in Thanet, a new line was built and two new stations - Dumpton Park and Ramsgate - were opened in 1926, closing Ramsgate Harbour. Part of the platform is still in situ hidden in undergrowth.

It was used prominently during World War I and during the Dunkirk evacuation of World War II. At the time, a Victorian block of houses and hotels had been constructed in Littlestone-on-Sea in the hope of creating a seaside resort. The Kentish Cinque Ports are Dover, Sandwich, Hythe, and Romney.

Hythe station was closed along with the line in 1951. On a personal note, I would like to find out which Naval branch the Dover Patrol served under as this may help find my Grandfather's service record.
