5000 Nights at the Opera, Sir Rudolf Bing

Perhaps this is partly to do with English not being his native language, but he is not a talented writer. Like that of his great predecessor, Bing's book is one-sided, self-justifying, intensely self-oriented and vastly fascinating. There is also a surprising amount of humor in the book, too.

Turandot

He died of a heart attack on 29 November 1924, when it had seemed that the radium treatment was succeeding.

5000 Nights At the Opera by Bing, Sir Rudolf

In the of the final syllables are usually dropped and words end in a consonant, ergo Turandott, as the name has been made Venetian. The librettos of operas that had succeeded elsewhere were translated and adapted; their scores were replaced, or retailed for new casts. But did Da Ponte make it first? That is true, certainly, but the book covers considerably more ground than that.

Turandot

Tell me my name before sunrise, and at dawn, I will die.
