A powerful lightning bolt passes through walls of houses, as do sounds and voices.

Lucretius on the nature of things (1910 edition)

If a thing exists at all and can be touched in however slight a way, no matter how large or small it may be, it must be counted as a part of the total sum of material things. And even when these do not come, yet the conscience-stricken mind torments itself with fear of the fire and the lash, and sees no end to such punishment fearing that those very evils will be enhanced after death. That is why the fountain in the daylight grows cold.

Anti-Atheism in Early Modern England 1580—1720: The Atheist Answered and His Error Confuted. The dust jacket for hard covers may not be included.

De rerum natura

Epicurus and Epicureanism
Epicurus was born on the island of Samos, just off the west coast of Asia Minor, in 341 b. Wherefore, despite demur and counter-speech, Confess thou must there is a void in things. Yet Smith only skims the surface of philosophical issues.
