While pasture isn't the answer in all cases, it will aid materially in supplementing a ration composed of cereals, minerals and the more commonly used protein supplements. The use of these inputs is neither uniform among all farmers nor constant from one agricultural season to the next.

Cooperatives Overview

Other international institutions regularly use international labour standards in their activities. No single policy can be prescribed to attain this objective. The Department of Justice is responsible for upholding anti-trust laws and maintaining market competition in the food industry.
