The president serves a four-year term of office, and is limited to one term in office.

International Council of Nurses

Directors are term-limited to two consecutive four-year terms of office. However, few member organizations have adopted the new structures. The organization's goals are to bring nurses' organizations together in a worldwide body, to advance the socio-economic status of nurses and the profession of nursing worldwide, and to influence global and domestic health policy.

Holdings: The History of the International Council of Nurses, 1899

To serve as the authoritative voice for nurses and nursing internationally. New realities of international migration, easier movement across and between countries, advanced communications technology, global health care, and a worldwide nursing shortage make the preparation of a 21st-century, diverse nursing workforce a critical priority.
