Basic Guide to Cross

Shah acted as the Institute's Director of Studies whilst still alive. The development of cross-cultural and area studies requires a large mass of readily available, organized cultural information; conventional sources of such information are widely scattered and often inaccessible, and often too expensive to assemble and utilize effectively. What is more, society formulates an expectation that contemporary artists will re-construct identity narratives concerning the general image of the nation, society or ethnic group that is commemorated through memory politics.
