Hospital Compare

As the funnel of prioritized individuals widens for a COVID-19 vaccine, consumer preferences could become a major factor to help ensure vaccine uptake and minimize concerns over vaccine hesitancy or pandemic fatigue.

Consumer Views & Use of Massage Therapy

This trend is likely to continue in the short term as more individuals face stress and financial difficulties; both these factors can lead to the emotional eating, and purchase of less healthy food because of cost and convenience.

20 Health care surveys

The change in magnitude fluctuated more in 2015, when CPI-U gasoline declined by 27. Examining the structure and features of ESPPs Offering periods Our survey found that ESPP offering periods of less than six months are the most popular at nearly 59 percent. The respondent-provided tax data were still available in the public-use microdata for 2013, after which they were no longer collected.

HCAHPS: Patients' Perspectives of Care Survey

A combined 41 percent noted an offering period from seven to over 25 months. Results in this report are based on integrated data from both surveys.

Community Survey Questions + Sample Questionnaire Templates

When asked which factors would make them more likely to participate, the ability to participate from home using telehealth was most influential in increasing the likelihood of participating. The share reporting they had used a retail clinic increased by 40% and the share reporting they have gone to an urgent care center grew by nearly one-fifth 18% over that time period see figure.

US Remote Work Survey: PwC

For example, men were much more likely than women to choose retail clinics and urgent care centers, as were younger groups.
