Psychiatry

To that end, Dr Zun and other members of an AAEP task force reviewed the evidence regarding medical evaluation of psychiatric patients presenting to the ED and created the recommendations. Understanding the connections between genetics, emotion, and mental illness, is important while psychiatrists also conduct medical laboratory and psychological tests to diagnose and treat patients.

74105 Psychiatrists

Through microscopic examination and clinical lab tests, pathologists work to diagnose, monitor, and treat diseases. Psychiatrists primarily use medication to treat symptoms of mental health conditions, but they may also use different types of psychotherapy. Our primary responsibility
