He sent over 200 to college on a basketball scholarship, a rate of almost four for each graduating class over his 46-year Raytown South career. Everybody around here had us written in as state champs before the season even started. To me, he was a hero and I owe him so much.

The Value Of Mentorship In Sport Is Reflected In UCLA Assistant Athletic Communications Director Ryan Andersen

It was, many now say, the beginning of the end of Jim Crow.
