Advice to Fintech Firms: How to Partner with Banks

Nowadays, governments around the world are promoting, or even requiring, central clearing, so that they can assess the systemic risk being imposed upon economies by their financial institutions, especially in the trading of derivatives, as was witnessed in the recent Great Recession of 2007-2009, when governments had to bail out many financial institutions because of a possible domino effect of major institutional failures. But, in banking, the threat is an even bigger priority. At the time of writing, Brexit has just occurred, but the UK banks have been preparing for this for several years, and the volume of business and staff which have transferred to continental Europe is far lower than was originally feared.

Changes in Bank Rate, Minimum Lending Rate, Band 1 Dealing Rate, Repo Rate and the official Bank Rate normally signify a marked change in the level of short-term market rates. The founding team consists of CTO James Dear, who holds a PhD in theoretical physics from Kings College London, and CEO and ex-Goldman Sachs trader Christoph Rieche. Where the client is based in a jurisdiction that does regulate the activity, the EU bank will contractually face the client, and will use local bankers supported by UK bankers in a similar way to the model for capital markets.

Clearing (finance)

In August 2020 the Bank began publishing the SONIA Compounded Index, aimed at simplifying the calculation of compounded interest rates and in doing so provides a standardised basis through its publication as an official source. That's because we need a minimum of 50 people to respond to our survey to generate meaningful ratings.
