History Notes

Edward Williamson gave evidence at the inquest on the death, but the culprit was never identified. Then it will be possible to judge whether the better policy will be to extend the Adelaide operations on a large scale or to curtail the proposed increased expenditure in South Australia and to at the same time open a branch factory in Victoria. In 1888 Swallow and Ariel became a limited liability company, and the Australian Biscuit Company Arnotts acquired the company in 1964.

This line was 66 miles long and ran from Porus to Montego Bay. In 1870 he transferred the business to Leeds, in order to broaden its scope, and shortly after this move, he decided to develop a trade with local schools, taking advantage of changes in the structure of education resulting from the 1870 Act. Although they got along quite well together on a personal level, there was little chance of any real progress given the state of the war with the Germans still advancing in all theatres.
