This had led to a demand for similar treatment in England, and work was proceeding on extending the six-inch map to northern England, but only a three-inch scale for most of Scotland. The one-inch maps continued to be produced until the 1970s, when they were superseded by the 1:50000-scale series — as proposed by William Roy more than two centuries earlier. The map comes in 2 double sided sheets and a plastic wallet for convenience.
