Hippoboscidae

Our knowledge of hippoboscid fauna in the ROK is still poor, but even from our limited data, it is now feasible to show an outline of species composition in relation to geographical distribution and hosts. Because of limited knowledge, examinations of the hippoboscid specimens from the Palearctic and Oriental regions are important to further understand the species status and distributions. Further survey of hippoboscids in the ROK and the Asian continent is necessary determine the fauna, distribution, host relationship, and transmission of pathogens in the east Palearctic region.
