I never was ill enough to spend a day in bed till I was fifty-five, and might never have been ill at all if I had gone on drinking port proportionately ; but I degenerated with the times and only drank two glasses, not two bottles, as I should. It was an odd remark, for nothing had been said of history, and that was not my line. This old Captain Knight was on the Impregnable at the bombardment of Algiers, 27 August 1816, and next day he did a conscientious drawing of the ship, showing all the shot-holes in the hull and the damage to the rigging.

But unconsciously, I think he departed from his plan, though he retained the title; and in the end his work was not what Bacon meant, nor what anybody wanted.

Laudator Temporis Acti: I Shall Become Bacon

It acted as a scare-crow, and gave me a compartment to myself. In those times the insurance companies had fire- engines of their own, and people trusted to these engines.
