Successful students understand their finances

While you are an undergraduate, you may want to buy a car; consult your budget and your other transportation options to see if that makes sense for you.

What is Grant Management? A Complete Guide to Grant Management for Companies and Nonprofits

Multiple user access and roles For most organizations, grant management is not a solo affair. Effective grant management requires clear expectations and deadlines for all the people involved. Take a look at the questions or format of the report in advance, and set aside time to finish it ahead of schedule.

Navigate

You can make extra money by selling unneeded items on eBay or Craigslist or holding a yard sale. Navigate, our Student Success Management System, is an enterprise-level technology that links administrators, advisors, deans, faculty, other staff, and students in a Coordinated Care Network designed to help community colleges and universities proactively manage student retention and success to deliver a return on education. Make sure that you are choosing the right type of card for a college student: one with a low rate and a low credit limit.

Navigate

Consider your dreams Midterm goals can also include goals like buying a first home or, later on, a vacation home. Coordinate campus-wide student support through early alerts, case referrals, reporting, and centralized interaction records, such as notes, documents, and scheduling.
