I've chosen this moment, in part, because I think it's the best time.

Forest Service chief outlines new priorities

Serving with you has been a really special privilege, and it's the best capstone that I could ever ask for my career. I also believe that the time is right.

Theodore Roosevelt and Conservation

I am I have made together with my family to retire from the USDA Forest Service. A sportsman-hunter all his life, Roosevelt sought a chance to hunt the big game of North America before they disappeared. In the last 3 years, we have embraced This Is Who We Are, launching an agencywide effort to create a safe and inclusive work environment where everyone is treated with respect and valued for their work.
