As mentioned above, the title of each issue must be the same. Copyright Office Practices, Third Edition.

Help: Newspapers

Guidance

This format continued through the 20th century as the predominant form of published breaking news.

RNI

Special Relief from the Deposit Requirements As a general rule, the Copyright Office will not accept physical copies, such as a print copy of each issue. In exceptional circumstances, the Office may grant special relief from the digital deposit requirement.

RNI

All the Issues Must Be Published in the Same Month All the issues in the group must be published, and they must be published within the same month and within the same calendar year. The upload must include a complete copy of the final edition of each issue published during the month specified in the application.

Drug Office

Similarly, a publisher that allows its subscribers to download an ePrint newspaper from its website may satisfy this requirement if each issue is distributed as a collective work and the content of each issue does not change once it has been downloaded. However, in Australia, the overriding consideration for trial sponsors with respect to record retention is the issue of product liability and the potential need for sponsors of products to produce records at any time during, and possibly beyond, the life of a product in the event of a claim against the sponsor as a result of an adverse outcome associated with the use of the product. Do not name the person or persons who actually created the issues or any of the articles, photographs, or other contributions appearing in those issues.
