Chakri Memorial Day

A Chronological format was used and information is listed by year.

In Remembrance of His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej: First decade of his life

He identified the cult worshippers as urban, independent business people with irregular incomes such as shop owners and street vendors, as well as stock and real estate speculators who see themselves as being at the mercy of the bureaucracy. In order to improve consumer appeal and attract advertisers, the magazine was revamped; henceforth it would be printed on higher quality paper, with glossy covers, and would devote more space to handsome full-page colour photographs. The twentieth-anniversary issue that commemorated Sinlapa watthanatham's significance as a commentator on and voice in Thai popular culture included a retrospective selection of memorable milestone covers illustrating path-breaking and best-selling features.

American Revolution Bicentennial 1776 1976

One of a number of volumes published to mark the occasion of Rattanakosin Bicentennial, paying tribute to the Kings of the Chakri Dynasty who founded the city of Rattanakosin, Bangkok.

Local Histories

A softcover publication featuring the ancient town of Woodbury, Connecticut and its soldiers involved with the American Revolution. Today, Chan and Mook are revered as heroines because of their opposition to the Burmese invasions.

When Washington Burned: An Illustrated History of the War of 1812 by Arnold Blumberg, Hardcover

The long roots hold the soil together, the grass protects the topsoil, and can also be used to feed animals.

Twenty Years of Sinlapa watthanatham: Cultural Politics in Thailand in the 1980s and 1990s.

Rattanakosin Kingdom (1782

In 2015, New York Times best-selling author and UK native Alex Kershaw was commissioned to pen this history of the nation's first private military college to commemorate its 2019 bicentennial. He was also a sculptor and is said to have sculpted the face of the Niramitr Buddha in. This was followed in close succession by the Huay Hong Krai Centre in Chiang Mai as a model of catchment area conservation for the North, the Pikul Thong Centre in Narathiwat which offered a case study on the ecology of the swampy, acidic land typical of the southern region, the Phu Phan Centre in the northeastern province of Sakon Nakhon which studies soil salinisation and irrigated reforestation in a drought ridden area, the Kung Kraben Bay Centre in the coastal province of Chantaburi which is devoted to the study and rehabilitation of degraded mangrove forests and coastal waters, and the Huay Sai Centre in Phetchaburi which studied the rehabilitation of devastated forests and offered strategies to help villagers benefit from forest resources while becoming forest protectors themselves.

In Remembrance of His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej: First decade of his life

It is hence of less analytical value for our purposes. Critics predictably called for nationalist solutions, and some urged a return to the cultural certainties of Thai traditions of self-reliance. They receive their separate chapters.
