Camilla Orjuela

It highlights the role played by intermediate variables that affect the pathways of protest groups: such as changes in the international system; the visions and strategies of resistance movements and their degree of success; the economic relationship between the dominant and dominated side; and the legitimacy of the ideology in power apartheid or Zionism. The book reveals patterns of behaviour shared by groups in both cases. This report develops and discusses a new analytical framework to understand the functions of civil society in peace building.
