Domestic Economies: Family, Work, and Welfare in Mexico City, 1884

Domestic Economies: Family, Work, and Welfare in Mexico City, 1884—1943 analyzes family practices and class formation in modern Mexico by examining the ways in which family-oriented public policies and institutions affected cross-class interactions as well as relations between parents and children. Belich acknowledges straight away that these three forms of interaction âoverlapped in practice and blurred in theory,â but he maintains nonetheless that it is necessary to distinguish among them 22. .
