Crime in Port Moresby: experiences of a foreigner

Approximately 30 000 people live with HIV in Papua New Guinea. Friends and relatives of an injured person may demand immediate compensation from whomever they deem at fault, regardless of legal responsibility. Australia has adjusted its approach to capacity building but faces challenges in managing political expectations that foreign advisers be more accountable to PNG government ministers.

Water, Sanitation and Hygiene

Ms Harris, who is one of 50 members of the AFP deployed in PNG to offer local police advice, said change would be slow. The most commonly used facilities are in Brisbane and Cairns Australia.

Water, Sanitation and Hygiene

Authorities in PNG have addressed the issue, however, significant measures have not yet been taken to prevent trafficking and exploitation of individuals. We spoke to her about the social and historical context for the extreme levels of violence against women and children in the country.

The Shocking Reality Of The Sexual Violence Epidemic In Papua New Guinea

CBC has offices in every province across PNG and it plays a central role in developing and implementing restorative justice programs throughout the country. Another tactic involves egging the windshield of an oncoming vehicle. Some hotels in Papua New Guinea offer a female-only floor or section for added safety, and women traveling alone may wish to inquire if their lodging offers such a choice.
