Okeke v Minister of Home Affairs and another (Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997) ((Civil Cause No. 73 of 1997)) [2001] MWHC 36 (08 July 2001);

One thing never happened here which, for reasons appearing later, is significant. The court can only award compensation to the person whose rights are violated. On appeal, the Court of appeal affirmed the decision of the trial court, hence the instant appeal.

Just Decided!

It brings to the fore a problem which concerns many scholars and commentators on our Constitution and those interested in the promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights. Whether the lower court was right in deciding that despite the provisions of Section 36 11 of the 1999 Constitution and Section 160 a of the Evidence Act, the confessional extra-judicial statement said to be made by the Appellant which she resiled from, was still admissible in law.

Okean

This judicial review bases on what happened on 3rd February, 1998 when Mr.

Okean

. Finally, she wants further damages arising from the matters mentioned. She applies as a woman, a wife and a mother about her husband, Mr.

Možete se osećati kao da vam partner ne posvećuje. He submits that section 9 discriminates against women and is therefore unconstitutional. .

Just Decided!

He says he feels very strongly and it is a matter in which many people in this country are concerned.
